North Dakota Critical Access Hospitals

St. Andrew's Health Center was founded in 1911. The hospital opened on October 10, 1913, staffed by seven sisters from the Sisters of Mary of the Presentation.

In 1918, a new hospital building was erected. This facility doubled in size within ten years to accommodate health care services for over 40 patients. A nurse's dormitory was built twenty years later. In 1956, the hospital was renovated to house obstetrics, central service, the laundry department, and an ambulance entrance.

To invite greater community involvement in the operation of St. Andrew's, an advisory board was organized in 1959. Fund drives enabled the hospital to purchase equipment, and complete another major renovation. More changes were made throughout the years to meet the need for senior apartments.

In 1993, St. Andrew's changed its name to St. Andrew's Health Center. In 1999, the hospital's ambulance garage and conference room were remodeled to be used by St. Andrew's Clinic.

In July of 2000, St. Andrew's was designated as both a Level IV Trauma and a Critical Access Hospital. A number of changes were made to meet requirements of Critical Access designation.

On September 30, 2001, St. Andrew's de-certified its nursing home beds. In 2004, St. Andrew's was designated as a Level V Trauma Hospital, and St. Andrew's Clinic changed its designation to a free-standing Rural Health Clinic.

St. Andrew's is currently licensed as a 25 bed, Critical Access Hospital, with a Rural Health Clinic and 14 apartments attached.

St. Andrew's Health Center is located in Bottineau, North Dakota, a town of about 2,300 people. Located in the Turtle Mountains, Bottineau is the "Four Seasons Playground." Fishing; hunting; snowmobiling; ice fishing; down hill, cross country, and water skiing; trails for hiking, biking, and horse back riding; boating; and canoeing are just some of the outdoor activities to enjoy in the hills or at Lake Metigoshe.

Bottineau also offers a volunteer ambulance and fire department, several restaurants, a movie theater, outdoor swimming pool, shooting range, baseball diamonds, city park, and two 9-hole golf courses. We have numerous churches, a K-12 public school, a two year junior college, and many organizations such as Jaycees, Rodeo Club, 4-H, summer baseball, American Legion, Auxiliary, and Wildlife Club. Bottineau is close to the International Peace Gardens, has an active racing circuit at the Thunder Mountain Speedway and offers opportunities to see theater productions and to visit the Bottineau County Historical Museum.
